

Grass-roots revolt against wind farms

New national alliance of community action groups formed to challenge turbines impact on communities and countryside

PSH is pleased to announce that it supports wholeheartedly the formation of NAWAG- the National Alliance of Wind Farm Action Groups as detailed in the attached press release.

This document succinctly outlines the specific aims of all Groups fighting against onshore proliferation of wind turbines in our most beautiful areas, and highlights the corrosive effects on communities of the ruthless commercial tactics of developers. The new organisation will give a more powerful voice to organisations such as PSH, who are not prepared to stand by and see the destruction of our beautiful landscape heritage through the commercial avarice of the developers. NAWAG has also called for a 2km exclusion zone from homes, and a petition has been placed on the No. 10 Downing Street website as follows:

<http://petitions.number10.gov.uk/WindFarmHealth/>